PREFACE.

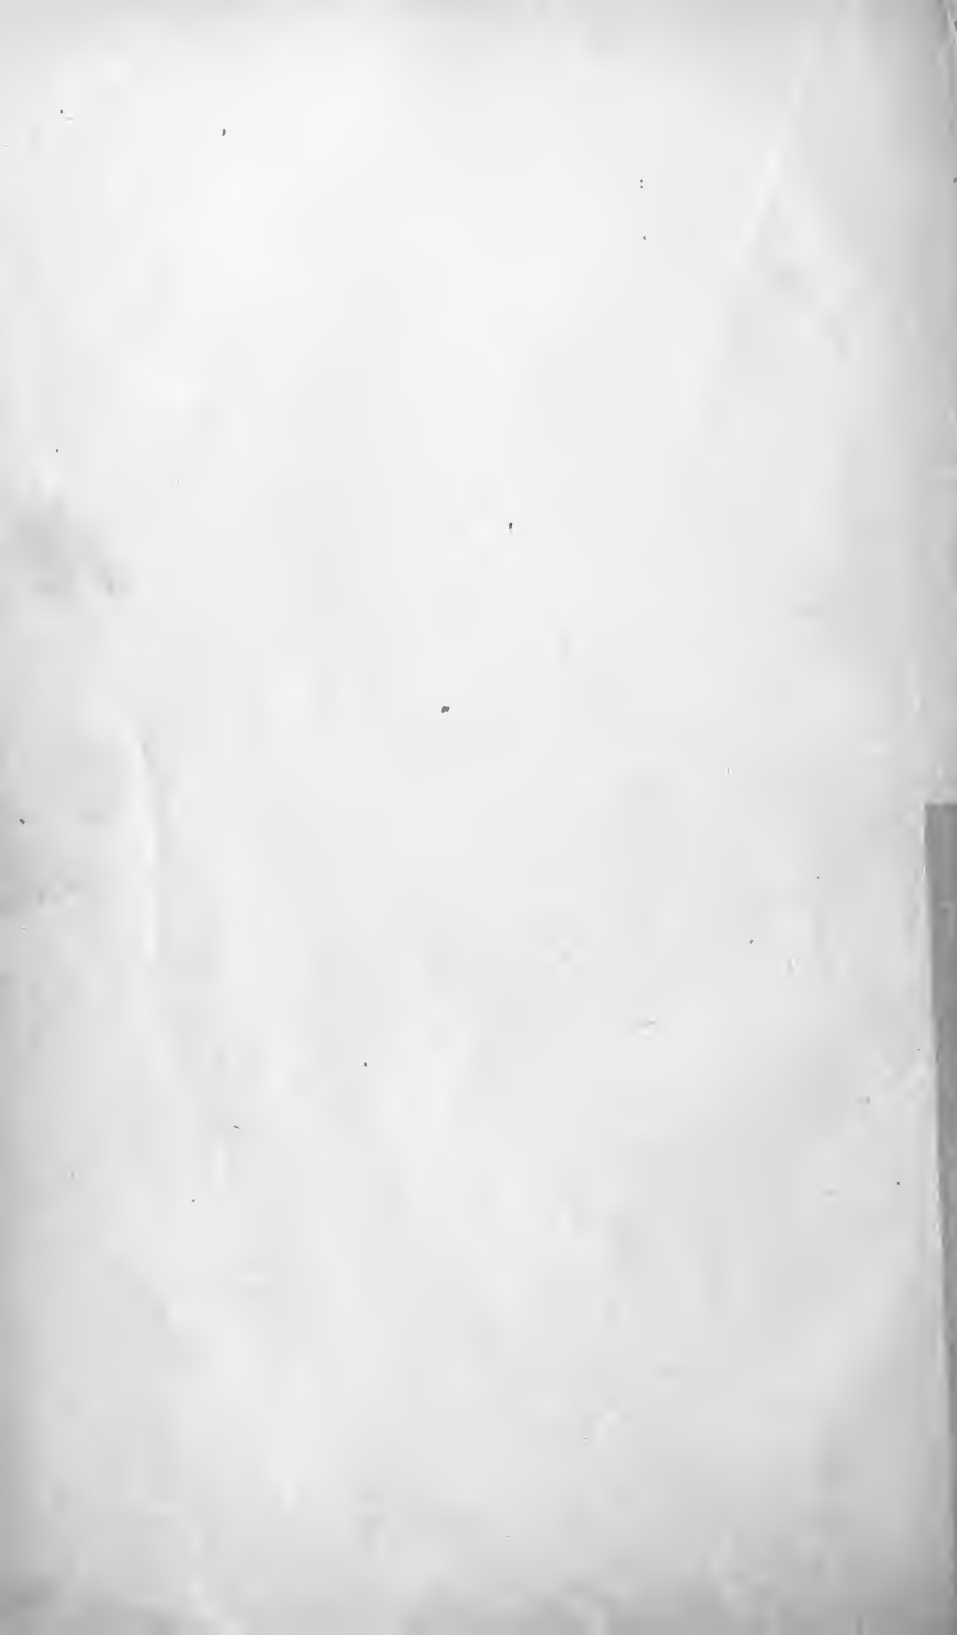

The late HON. OLIVER CHASE, of Fall River, R. I. (page 64), collected the first notes for this work, which matter was arranged by his nephew, EDWARD A. FRENCH, Esq., (page 64).

After the honorable gentleman's death, the manuscript was left undisturbed for a number of years, and until VERNON WADE, Esq., of Fall River, Mass. (page 54), and HON. NATHANIEL B. CHURCH, of Tiverton, R. I. (page 78), became interested in the work, and the former gentleman has collected many new and valuable notes for it, until now it is more than doubled from that first collected.

The Editor trusts that this work of collecting will not be permitted to stop here, but that some day in the future a new edition will be called for, and one very much enlarged and improved over this of 1887.

The Editor returns his thanks to the family for the many favors extended him, and in turn congratulates them upon this the first publication of their family history.

JAMES N. ARNOLD.

INDEX OF NAMES.

This index has this feature, that no one name is used but once, although it might include several persons. Experience teaches the author that to separate Benjamin or Charles Church (as the case may be) to each personally, does not really help the searcher in the end, for he will invariably look at all of the same name, hence the references may as well be under one general heading as several; but where either of these names take on another, as Charles Anson, Charles B., Charles Cole, &c., a separation becomes imperative. At the same time should there be two or more persons named Charles Anson, or Charles A., no more reason exists for it than in the case first cited.

ADDITIONAL NOTES.

Since this work was put in type the editor has received the following, which is here submitted, being in addition to what has been printed in the main portion of this book. The page given above these notes refers to the pages in this work where the rest of the sketch may be found. While the editor regrets that these notes had not been handed in before so that he could have placed them in their proper place in this work, he is yet pleased to have them even at this late day, and he trusts that even after this work has been given to the public that the work of collation will still go on, and eventually terminate in a new and very much improved edition over this one of 1887.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. RICHARD CHURCH. 1608. Came to New England in the fleet with Governor Winthrop in 1630. Was made freeman Oct. 19, 1630, but did not then take the oath. Removed from Weymouth to Plymouth where he was made freeman Oct. 4, 1632. He married Elizabeth, the daughter of Richard Warren, in 1636, and lived at Eel River in Plymouth. Gave deed to Robert Bartlett,* March, 1633. He was taxed at Duxbury, 1637. He was a carpenter by trade, and with John Thompson was engaged to build the first Meeting-house, and the first gun carriage in Plymouth in 1637. In 1649 he sold his estate at Plymouth. Was at Eastham in 1649; at Charlestown in 1653; and at Hingham in 1657. At Sandwich, in 1664, he gave an evidence in which he called himself fifty-six years old. He was often a member of the "Grand Enquest," and frequently made referee. He served as sergeant in the Pequot War.

*Bee it knowne vnto all men by these Prsentes yt I Richard Church have sould vnto Robert Bartlet all the right and title yt I the sd Richard hath in house and houseing and land with all the meadow ground with the addition yt hee had of goodman Kemton at the Eel River, and hee is to heave Cubbert and bime and all the shelves and benches yt are in the house and all the ladders yt are about the house, and the said Richard Church doth bind himselfe his heirs and asynes to Ensure all yt the sd Richard Church hath sould to Robert Bartlet yt no man shall not trouble him for it, but the said Richard Church is to take his corn of from the ground and to thresh it in the barn in fourteen days and he is to heave the plancks yt are in the barne.

And the said Robert Bartlet is to give vnto the sd Richard Church for his house and land the full sum of twenty-five pound in maner and form folowing, a Rid Oxe yt they call his name Mouse for eight Pound and ten shil, and six pound to bee payed at Mr. Paddies in Comodities, and the Resedue to be paid the next yeare folowing in the last of September either in Catell or in corn or in merchants pay, if in Catell they must be prised, if in corn it must bee at the price curreant, if in merchants pay hee must take it as hee Receveth it, and merchants pay is to bee paid in linneu and wollen and shooes and stockens heere at Plymouth if thay be there to be had, if not hee is to take it in the other pay.

And Elizabeth the wife of Richard Church aforsd the Day and Yeare above written Did according to order give her free and full consent vnto the sale of the house & land and thereire several apurtenances aforesaid according to the tearmes and conditions above mentioned.

His will is dated Hingham, December 25, 1668.* He died at Dedham, December 27, 1668, and was buried at Hingham. His will provides for his widow, Elizabeth, and gives equal portions unto all of his children excepting Joseph, who, on account of his lame hand, should have a double portion.

His wife died at Hingham, in 1670.

The children of Richard and Elizabeth (Warren) Church were :

3. COL. BENJAMIN CHURCH (2), 1639, d. Jan. 17, 1718, —Richard (1)—was the famous Indian warrior whose exploits are narrated in the early histories of the Colonies, prominent among which is the "History of King Phillip's War," written from memoranda made by himself. He was born in Plymouth, 1639. Was bred to his father's trade, a carpenter. Very little is known of his early history. About 1667, was living at what is now called Little Compton. Dec. 26, 1667 he was married to Alice, daughter of Constant and Elizabeth (Collier) Southworth of Duxbury, 1646, d. Mar. 5, 1719. She was a grand-daughter of the wife of Governor William Bradford. Constant Southworth was commissary general during King Phillip's War. May 29, 1670, was a freeman at Duxbury and a constable in that town, June, 1671. He signed and sealed the "Grand Articles" for the settlement of Bristol, R. I., Sept. 14, 1680. July 7, 1681, he was authorized by the court to "cutt and cleare" a more direct way from Mount Hope to Boston. Sept. 1, 1681, the first proprietors of Mount Hope (76 in number, Captain Benjamin Church, heading the list) decided that the name of the town should be Bristol. May 22, 1682, he was chosen deputy to represent Bristol in the Colonial Court, at which time he was also chosen first selectman of the town, which positions he held during his residence at Bristol. July 7, 1682, he was commissioned a magistrate and authorized to solemnize marriages (a great many performed by him are found recorded on the town records of both Bristol and Little Compton). He was one of the original eight members of the First Congregational Church of Bristol, 1687, in the days of the Rev. Samuel Lee. History says probably in 1696 or 1697 he removed to Freetown (now Fall River) with his brother Caleb, and improved the water power by erecting a saw mill and fulling mill and a grist mill, which property he sold Sept. 18, 1714, to Richard Borden, of Tiverton, and Joseph Borden, of Freetown, sons of John. In 1705, he removed to Little Compton and helped establish a Congregational Church. In 1706 he was chosen a representative for Little Compton to the General Court. During his residence at Bristol and Little Compton he acted as moderator at the town meetings. He was a very extensive dealer in land, and bought and sold mills and water privileges in Bristol, Fall River, Tiverton and Little Compton. He was frequently a trial justice, and often selected a referee.

Jan. 16, 1718, while returning from a visit to his sister, Mrs. Irish, he was thrown from his horse, and so severely injured that he died about twelve hours afterwards. He was buried with great funeral pomp and with military honors.

His monument bears the following inscription :

Here lyeth interred the [body]

* Stone's R. I. in the Rebellion says: This Peter I suppose to be Col. Peter, living in Bristol, whose son Capt. Benjamin, commanded a company of the Eighth Michagan Volunteer Militia, who was killed by a shot through the head, June 16, 1862, while gallantly leading a charge against the rebels in the battle of James island.

43. CHARLES CHURCH (5), 1740 — Charles (4), Charles (3), Nathaniel (2), Richard (1)—m., 1762, Lillis Brown, of Swansea.

Was born in Freetown, now Fall River, Mass. During the Revolution was a Tory. Being compelled to flee the country, went to St. John. His property at Fall River was confiscated and a part or the whole of it was sold to Jonathan Barnaby. It is probable that his son John was left behind, and that a portion of the property was allowed him as he lived on a section of this same estate. John raised a family of three children in Fall River, and died there much respected.

About thirty years after Charles (5) left the country, his son Lot came to Fall River, and demanded the confiscated property or its equivalent. Before making his claim he induced Sarah Church, widow of his brother John, to transfer to him her right and title to the estate, promising her a suitable compensation after affairs were adjusted. He then threatened a law suit to recover the property, but subsequently compromised the matter for a small amount. Mr. Barnaby, to prevent litigation, sold a piece of the land to Enock French, for ninety dollars, seventy-five of which Lot accepted in full for all his claims. The actual and only compensation which Sarah Church received was thirteen bushels of corn. Lot was in Fall River and vicinity about a month and then returned to St. Johns.

Their children were:

- 52. i JOHN, 1794, m. Sarah Church (6), of Seth (5).
- ii LOT.

44. CAPT. JOSEPH CHURCH (5), 1742, 1816,—Charles (4), Charles (3) Nathaniel (2), Richard (1)—m. 1765, Sarah Brightman.

He was drowned at Bristol Ferry, R. I. He had carried a cargo of wood from Fall River to Providence, and with Thomas Chaloner was returning in his sloop, when it is supposed one of the men was knocked overboard, and that while the other was endeavoring to rescue him both were drowned, and Capt. Thomas Sanford found the vessel with a light in the cabin, but with no one on board. For many days the river was dredged, cannon were fired, and every effort was made to recover the bodies, but neither of them was ever found.

Sarah, wife of Joseph, became insane upon learning of her husband's decease, and remained so a number of years. She did not recover her reason until a short time before her death.

- 72. iii MEHITABLE T., Apr. 24, 1783, d. Feb. 17, 1849, m. June 15, 1806, Wm. S. N. Allau, Jr.

Died, in this town, very suddenly, on Thursday evening last (and evidently occasioned by the untimely end of her son as mentioned above), Mrs. Mahitable Church, in the 45th year of her age, consort of Mr. Benjamin Church. It is due to the merits of this lady to say

* She was called Betsey. All legal papers signed by her after her husband's death bore the signature of "Betsey Church."

she possessed many eminent virtues. As a wife she was kind, faithful and endearing; as a mother tender, affectionate and discreet; as a friend beloved, esteemed, and respected. By her acquaintance, long will she be remembered.

“All, all is right, by God ordained or done;
And who but God resumed the friend he gave.”

—From Newport Mercury, Saturday, May 26, 1804.

iv BENJAMIN, Jan. 30, 1785, d. May 17, 1804. Was drowned.

Drowned from on board ship Angeronia (Capt. Isaac Burdick), of this port, on her passage from Charleston, Mr. Benjamin Church, Junior, son of Mr. Benjamin Church of this town, in the 20th year of his age. In the death of this young man his surviving parents and brothers and sisters will mourn the bereavement of a son and brother endeared to them, and esteemed by all who knew him for the affability of his manners, and the sweetness of his temper and disposition. His youthful and intimate acquaintances will bewail the loss of an affectionate friend, and the community will regret the privation of enterprise and growing usefulness.

“Escaped from earth, O safe on that calm shore,
Where sin and pain and passion are no more;
So soft remembrance drops a pious tear,
And holy friendship sits a mourner there.”

He went to California in 1849, arriving in San Francisco, Sept. 12. After a short stay here he went to the mines at Maraposa, where he worked three months, and then returned to San Francisco, where he cooked in a restaurant until the first of the next April. He then, with Andrew N. Dix, went to the mines, where they labored until the spring of 1851. The next five years was spent teaming. A ranch, with the specialty of selling milk, was the next venture, followed by a return to the mines for a short time. The next three years was spent in a store, followed by again returning to the mines. The next venture was a tavern, which proved disastrous to his future, after which the store claimed attention for a season, and next a sheep ranch, where money was made. The last twelve years has been spent in the employ of the Yosemite Company, engaged in carrying passengers to this beautiful valley.
